PROSPECTS BRIGHTENED

DISCUSSION OF PEACE TERMS HAS BEGUN.

Consideration of Indemnity and Cession of Sakhalin Postponed—Mantle of Secrecy Thrown Around Proceedings.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 12.—There is a rift in the clouds. Prospects of successful issue of the "Washington conference" have brightened somewhat as a result of to day's developments. Discussion of the terms submitted by the Japanese has actually begun, but this has been accomplished by postponing consideration of indemnity and cession of Sakhalin. As far as ascertainable, the Japanese were responsible for the tactics by which this hopeful stage was entered upon. As the mantle of secrecy has been thrown around the proceedings my mutual pledges not to divulge what has happened within the council chamber, there are missing links in the chain of evidence, and it is impossible to judge whether this signifies a backdown on either side on the main points. On the face of things, both sides are still as uncompromising as ever on the two issues, the struggle over them being merely postponed.

Some sort of a private understanding arrived at by Komura and Witte during recess at the navy yard to day is hinted at, but there is not the slightest confirmation obtainable. No evidence of change of the uncompromising attitude on the part of Witte or Rosen regarding the main points is observable. Nevertheless the Japanese plainly manifest elation and some of them privately assert Witte would never had consented to discussion of the terms had he not been prepared to yield on the question of Sakhalin.

All this appears yet to be largely surmise and deduction, but certainly the curtain of mystery which has now been rung down might easily conceal important maneuvering from the public gaze.

The Russins reply with its non possimus as to indemnity and Sakhalin had been presented in the morning. Yet, in spite of this fact, at 3 o'clock the plenipotentiaries met and after agreeing to discuss conditions seriatim, entered upon consideration of the first of Japan's terms. The proposition to discuss conditions in this way is believed to have emanated from Japan's side.

The first conditon was of secondary importance—one of those which Russia had passed on as conditionally acceptable as the basis of discussion—yet little progress was made. Four hours were spent debating it, but no conclusion was reached. As there are twelve conditions and this one is of minor importance the outlook is still gloomy. The plenipotentiaries at 7 o'clock adjourned until to morrow afternoon. The Japanese wanted to hold a session in the morning, but Witte would not agree to this, as it was Sunday.

Both of to day's sessions are described as "friendly," but no details are divulged. Witte, however, makes no concealment of the fact that the rigid secrecy which the Japanese insisted upon imposing on the proceedings is distasteful to him. With much earnestness he spoke to night to the Associated Press upon the subject. At the time he was laboring under considerable excitement because of the published assertion which had been called to his attention that he had pleaded for an armistice. For the dignity of Russia and pride of his country he asked that an absolute denial should be given to the report. Recurring to the question of secrecy of the proceedings, he said he did not understand Japan's desire to conceal what was taking place nor could he appreciate the logic of arguments adduced in support of their position.

"We desire," said he, "that everything pertaining to the conference should be done in the day light. Russia is ready to be judged by the whole world. We have nothing to conceal and nothing to fear. Before the conference began all sorts of reports and misstatements emanated from the other side. Now that the world needs enlightenment, now that the moment has come to face the supreme tribunal fopublic opinion, we are not permitted to place before the world the evidence in our possession from which a just verdict could be returned as to the issue between the beliggerents. The Russian plenipotentiaries stand ready to publish the text of Japan's onditions, full reply of Russia presented this morning, diplomatic notes that have been exchanged and minutes of the sittings. The issue now being tried at Portsmouth is not only a question of peace or war between Russia and Japan but which might produce a general conflagration involving the shedding of blood in many countries.

It is believed that the condition discussed at to day's meeting was the question of evacuation of Manchuria and the transfer of Russian eases to Japan.

KEPT INFORMED.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The foreign office was kept open all day, but only for the receipt and handling of messages from peace plenipotentiaries. It was explained that in view of Witte's full power to arrive at a complete understanding the Russian government desired that he go ahead and act on his own initiative during the remainder of the conference. Final recognition of this condition causes all eyes to center on the New Hampshire town and news received from it through the Associated Press is generally commented on and serves to keep the public and officials, aside from the rest of foreign office personages, posted on developments there.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—Dispatches from Portsmouth make it clear that unless there is very substantial abatement of demands of the Japanese plenipotentiaries, which is unlikely, the peace conference will come to a sudden conclusion. The two nations are so wide apart that all hope of agreement has been practically abandoned.

CELEBRATE BIRTH

People of Russia Remember First Anniversary of Heir to to Throne in a Festive Manner.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The first anniversary of the birth of Grand Duke Alexis, heir to the Russian throne, was celebrated in a festive manner throughout Russia to day. In St. Petersburg troops paraded to the music of a triumphal march written in honor of the birth of the czarevitch. Banners are flying in all streets and the capital is brilliantly illuminated to night. All government offices except the foreign offices were closed to day and ministers of state, heads of departments and all persons whose rank entitles them to admission to court went to Peterhof to offer their felicitations to the emperor and empress and to participate in a special mass.

A statement is published in the official messenger to day announcing the project for a national assembly had been laid before the emperor for signature. The statement outlines the province of the new body, quoting the words of the project that "delegates of the people shall be summoned to participate in preliminary study and discussion of legislative propositions which go up thence through the council of empire to the supreme autocratic authority."

FEVER CASES INCREASING

ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE REPORTED YESTERDAY

The Public Not Dismayed by Heavy List of New Yellow Fever Cases—All Suspects Included in List.

New Orleans, Aug. 12.—Official fever report up to 6 p. m.:

New cases, 105.
Total cases, 913.
Deaths, 9.
Total deaths, 142.

Exertions of inspectors of the marine hospital service in conjunction with voluntary reports of physicians produced another large aggregation of new cases of all classes of yellow fever to day. The public, however, having reconciled itself to a heavy list for some days to come, was undismayed by the report. Both lay and scientific opinion still considers the situation hopeful. It is admitted that not all the cases embraced in the daily totals of the authorities are actually yellow fever. Even at the emergency hospital, to which the worst cases go, numbers of them have been finally diagnosed as malaria or a form of typhoid. In various parts of the city cases described in first reports as yellow fever have been thoroughly screened and otherwise prevented from spreading the infection, only to resolve themselves into some other type of fever. All suspicious cases, whatever their nature, that are turned in by inspectors and doctors go at once into the yellow fever lists and there is no correction of the total if a careful diagnosis subsequently determines it to be other than the prevailing fever.

The federal authorities, however, are abundantly satisfied with this arrangement. They consider it infinitely better that the many cases of malaria shall be erroneously reported as yellw fever than that a single yellow fever case should escape, for one such case, improperly handled, is calculated to spread infection through a whole neighborhood. Generally, then, the aspect of the situation is encouraging and if there is no marked increase in the death rate within the next fortnight it is anticipated, that due to precautions that have been taken, the fever will begin to decline, and, it is hoped, be finally eradicated before frost comes to stamp it out.

Orders have been received at the United States engineers' office here to prepare the government fleet for a cruise. The vessels will be thoroughly disinfected and provided with a healthy crew in order to escape trouble with the quarantines.

One of to day's victims of the fever is Carl A. Schaal, an Item reporter. His wife was stricken with fever some days ago and he assisted in nursing her back to health. Later he was himself seized with the fever. He came here from Fort Wayne, Ind., some years ago.

ALL PRECAUTIONS TAKEN.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 12.—Yellow fever inspectors are tightening all avenues leading into Illinois from the south. Al steamboats that will be allowed to stop must land at the main wharf at Cairo. Every precaution is taken to keep the fever out of Illinois.

Peoria, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Edward Drouin, whose husband yesterday committed suicide, is incarcerated in the county jail violently agitated and seemingly deranged. The Drouin home is filled with furniture of the strangest character. For some time he posed the "King of the World" and his wife as "Empress of the Universe." Keene's Horse Captures Great Republic Stakes Worth $39,000 at Saratoga—Was Favorite in the Race.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 12.—One of the greatest horse races of the year was run here this afternoon when J. R. Keene's Sysonby fully justified his title of king of the turf in winning the great Republic stake, worth $39,000 to his owner. Sysonby went to the post at odds of 9 to 20. He was never in better condition. James B. Brady's Oiseau, who finished second, looked fully equal to a mile and a quarter and bettors showed their confidence in his speed by playing him for all he was worth. Yet he was as good as 16 to 5 when the bugle sounded. Broomstick, 20 to 1, was third. Time, 2:07.

The Hopeful, worth $16,400 to the winner, fell to Mohawk II., 9 to 1 in betting, who ran a very game race and scored John Sandford's fourth stake race at this meeting. Athlete, 50 to 1, was second; Juggler, 7 to 5, third. Distance, six furlongs. Time, 1:13 2-5.

Manila, Aug. 12.—Now that the Taft party has been on the islands for over a week the attitude of leaders of the opposition to the policy of reduction of the Dingley tariff on sugar and tobacco has materially changed. It is stated the Cooper bill, favorably reported upon by the house committee at the last session of congress, will now be amended providing for free trade instead of the proposed reduction of 25 per cent on the prevailing Dingley rates.

IN HONOR OF MISS ROOSEVELT.

A grand ball was given to night in Marble hall of the government house in honor of Miss Alice Roosevelt by the citizens of Manila. It was the most brilliant and elaborate function in the history of the city. Miss Roosevelt wore a vice regal native gown which was presented to her by several Filipino ladies, who were occupied for three months in making it. Thousands of people attended the ball, many of the foreign and American ladies wearing native costumes. Rear Admiral Enquist of the Russian navy and his staff were among those present.

An information was then filed by the guardian of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lewis, an aged pair, whom Mrs. Harris is said to have relieved of several thousand dollars worth of property.

MURDER MYSTERY

Convict Gives Names of Men Who Killed Policeman.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The police believe they are in a fair way to solve the murder of Policemen Pennell and Devine, which occurred three years ago, and which has so far remained an impenatrable mystery.

A convict in the Joliet penitentiary, Louis Growozewski, offered to tell the police who committed the crime if he was granted a pardon. This was promised, and he declared the murders were committed by Louis Stachowski, Frank Helman and Frank Kroll in a fight following the effort of the policemen to arrest them after a robbery. Kroll is dead, Helman is a life prisoner in Joliet and Stachowski was arrested to night after a chase through the streets, in which the police were compelled to fire several shots at him. Stachowski denied that he had anything to do with the murders.

EGAN REMAINS GOLF CHAMPION

NOTED PLAYER PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Defeats D. R. Sawyer of Wheaton Six up Five to Play in Annual Tourney on the Chicago Golf Links.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—H. Chandler Egan successfully defended his title of national golf champion in the eleventh annual tourney at the Chicago Golf club's links at Wheaton to day, defeating D. R. Sawyer, of Wheaton, 6 up 5 to play in finals.

Champion Egan was confident of final victory over his rival from the local links nearby if he could discontinue his dangerous habit of driving the ball into the deep grass on his tee shots. Sawyer often was brilliant in his play in the heart-breaking struggle with the champion, but he was weak at vital times on the putting green. Egan was steady at all times with his iron club, although often getting discouraging lies by his terrific tee shots in the morning round. In the afternoon he avoided some of this trouble by using a cleek at the narrow places in the course.

As in the history of golf rom the beginning of the game, the championship was won and lost on the putting green. Egan invariably was down in the green two puts when he got to the green. Sawyer missed several opportunities to get a hole simply by falling down on puts. The detailed score:

AUTOMOBILE MANUFACTURE

Marvelous Growth of Industry—America Exports More Machines than She Imports, Yet Superiority is Claimed for French Car.

Few American industries have developed by leaps and bounds as has the manufacture of automobiles. In fact, America exports more automobiles than she imports, although most of the wealthiest men boast of their French and Italian motor cars. Bradstreet's agency gives some interesting figures to show the growth of the automobile manufacture. For the year ended June 30, 1905, 26,601 machines, valued at $34,650,000, were produced. For the year of 1904, 17,500 motors, valued at $22,000,000, were turned out. In 1899 about forty-five automobiles, worth $60,000, were made, and nine out of ten cars used in those days were brought from France.

It is not alone the automobile for pleasure purposes that is made in such large numbers. The commercial automobile, or motor van, is a new branch of the industry. America now leads in the production of automobiles for commercial purposes. This country is also forging to the front in the making of high-power, expensive touring cars.

A few years ago it was said that America would never produce such automobiles as French and Italian makers. This prediction has gone awry, and some American cars are winning in speed and endurance tests against the most famous of European cars. With the prosperity of the automobile makers come scores of new factories to make special machinery for the motor vehicles, and steel manufacturers are finding a new outlet for their finished product. A capital of almost $22,000,000 is employed in the making of automobiles.

Where are these factories, which send forth thousands and thousands of motors? Ask the residents of cities. For some reason, these factories flourish in small towns and there are comparatively few in cities. In America there are 100 manufacturers of the first class and, of course, smaller plants, which are rarely heard from.

Ohio leads all other states in the production of motor vehicles. Michigan is next, with Connecticut a good third. The following states in order named are credited with the next places, according to the value of the output: New York, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

All the manufacturers report that trade is more active than ever and in some instances the factories are working overtime. There is little doubt that the 1905 production will make a record.

MEN PAST SIXTY IN DANGER.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

What Have You Done?

You are going to do great things, you say—
But what have you done?
You are going to win in a splendind way,
As others have won.
You have plans, that when they are put in force
Will make you sublime.
You have mapped out a glorious upward course—
But why don't you climb?

You're not quite ready to buy, you say,
If you hope to win
The time to be starting is now—to day.
Don't daily, begin.
No man has ever been ready as yet,
Nor ever will be.
You may fail ere you reach where your hopes are set,
But try and see.

On the installment plan.
Your dreams are all right, but too far away—

MORE LOTS FOR EAST SIDE.

Charles W. Brown and his assistants were busy yesterday surveying the East State street property of Edward Whitmer, and staking off lots. Aside from his residence, Mr. Whitmer has a property frontage of more than 800 feet on the north side of East State street. The fact that the street railway system is to be extended and that the right of way has been secured on East State street, suggested to Mr. Whitmer that desirable building lots on that street would be in demand, and he accordingly decided to place them on the market. The lots front to the south and are so nicely located that they will probably find a ready sale.

Sacred concert, Nichols park, Sunday afternoon, 2:30 to 5:30, by Virginia Concert band.

We wonder if the Commoner will still declare the secretary of state covered with corporate taint.

Assassination has broken out again in South America, and with the yellow fever plague attacking North America the western hemisphere seems to be up against it.

It is announced that Samuel Alschuler is ready to shy his castor into the political ring again. This time the prize he seeks is the United States senatorship.

The czar has made it plain that when he calls the popular assembly, its functions will be merely advisory and consultative. Autocracy is still supreme in Russia and if the mission in which M. Witte is now engaged should result in failure the downfall of the liberal party will be complete.

Late press dispatches inform us that "Russia's national pride has been aroused and that the people are now reconciled to the war." Well, it is a cinch that the Japanese are ready to make the reconciliation more complete, if the people are not satisfied with the job.

The announcement by Secretary Taft that the Filipinos will be given a popular assembly in 1907, provided no insurrection exists on the islands, ought to be a finisher to the anti-imperialistic league, of which Edward Atkinson was the once leading spirit. Just think of it, imperialism was declared to be the paramount issue five years ago.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Cure For Roup.

Roup in the last stages cannot be cured. When it has reached such a stage the fowl should be killed and burned or buried so deeply that it cannot be dug up.

In the early stages of the disease treatment may be administered that will prove effectual. Dissolve two ounces of permanganate of potash in six and one-half pints of water. Completely submerge the fowl's head in this solution and hold it there as long as the bird can endure it without choking to death. This will cause it to sneeze, thus forcing the solution through the nostrils, when it comes in contact with the diseased parts. Repeat two or three times morning and evening. Next dilute some of the same solution with four times as much water and give the fowls to drink, allowing no other water. — Chicago Inter Ocean.

Mottles In Butter.

Recent investigations made by the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., prove that the success of modern dairy methods rests, so far as mottling is concerned, upon securing removal of casein compounds rather than upon distributing the salt evenly. Butter entirely freed from the casein of the milk—that is, butter washed thoroughly enough to get rid of all buttermilk—will not produce mottles, no matter how unevenly the salt be distributed, and butter containing an excess of buttermilk will produce mottles even if the salt is uniform throughout the mass.

The bulletin notes experimentally the effect of many factors upon mottling and shows clearly that only those which prevent perfect removal of the buttermilk tend to produce the defect.

The Farm Horse In Summer.

I make it a practice to give to work horses some grass commencing with the first of May, turning them out as soon as their grain is eaten and putting them in the stable again before dark, says Cyrus Greene in American Cultivator. A little grass, a roll and a taste of dirt afford them much pleasure, and it takes but little time to do it. Between the house and the barn there is about one-third of an acre, and no stock but horses are allowed in this inclosure, and not even these when it is soft enough to injure the grass. At most the horses cannot get far from the stable, and when wanted I catch one, and the rest follow. They soon get used to this and consider it a part of their daily routine. It takes but little time to attend to it, and great benefit is derived from it.

Feeding Turkeys.

When cold weather comes we begin to feed oats for the turkeys' breakfast, writes an Indiana farmer in American Agriculturist. When they come home at night they take their supper with our hogs, which are fed corn. We consider oats one of the best foods for young stock and have found it a great frame and muscle builder. After we have gathered our apples and the best of our garden vegetables we give the turkeys free access to the orchard and garden. This gives them a chance to procure a good deal of vegetable food. We also gather a good many cabbages and other vegetables which are too small to sell and feed them to the turkeys during the winter.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A very pleasant anniversary was observed Saturday afternoon and evening at the home of Charles C. Carter on West Morton avenue, his father, Cyrus C. Carter, having reached his eighty-first milestone. The family circle of husband, wife and four sons remains unbroken, and there were present on this occasion Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus C. Carter, the aged parents, Charles C. Carter and family, Scott P. Carter and family, Curtis C. Carter and wife, J. W. Peaker, James W. Smith, Richard Perkins, Robert Todd and family, Ed Decker, Al Bambrook, Frank Welch and a representative of the Journal. One son, Jesse Carter, of Bluffs, was unable to be present.

After a few hours spent socially, the guests assembled in the well appointed dining room, where an elaborate supper was served. The hostess and her assistants had prepared for the occasion everything that the heart could desire in the way of wholesome and refreshing viands, and all partook most heartily. The birthday cake, a delicious and handsome confection, inscribed with the dates, "1824-1905," was the work of Beulah Carter, the 14-year-old daughter of the host and hostess, and Miss Etta Decker, Mrs. Robert Todd and Miss Beulah Carter acted as waitresses, seeing that nothing was lacking that might contribute to the pleasure of the guests.

The venerable guest of honor is a native of Canada, but has lived for years in the vicinity of Exeter, Scott county. Born in Montreal, in 1824, his parents and near relatives were taken from him in the epidemic of the "cold plague" in 1838, when he was but 14 years of age. Some time after this terrible loss he started, in company with an uncle, a few years his senior, for a warmer climate. In those early days the methods of travel were exceedingly slow and sixty-three days were consumed in the trip from Montreal to Chicago, part of the journey being made by stage coaches, part by canal and on foot, and part on the lakes. Mr. Carter told of his journey as follows:

"My uncle, Royal Burbank, and myself went from Montreal to Burlington, Vermont, by stage, and from there to White Hall, N. Y., by boat. At White Hall we took the canal, walking and riding by turns, and after a journey of eighteen days we arrived at Buffalo. Here we were to take the boat for Chicago. Upon our arrival there we found a vessel waiting, with the sign, 'This vessel sails at 4 o'clock.' This just suited us, so we started on board. Just as I stepped aboard, however, I plainly felt a cold hand upon my shoulder and heard the words, 'Do not sail,' spoken distinctly. I was never superstitious, but this so impressed me that we boarded another boat, and only the next day we saw the other boat go down in the middle of the lake with all no board. We were caught in a terrible storm, but providentially escaped.

"Upon our arrival in Chicago we disposed of our trunks. Here we were offered three lots on the present site of Dearborn street, at $30 each. We decided not to stay, however, and left by Indian trail on foot for Ottawa. In the whole distance we saw not a dwelling or a sign of civilization. At Ottawa we took the boat for Naples, but got left at Beardstown. It was while trying to make our way to Naples that we first were disillusioned as to the nature of the country to which were were going. We had been told in Canada that we would find the woods full of berries and that wild hogs were so abundant that all we had to do was to drive them on a boat and ship them to New Orleans. While wandering in the woods we met a settler, and in conversation he learned what our ideas were. Pointing first to the earth and then to the heavens, he said: 'There is the ground, and there is the sky. God Almighty put them there, and that is all you will find here.'

"We finally hailed a boat and landed at our destination, and from there went to Exeter, where we found a thriving, busy town, with a big mill and numerous industries."

Mr. Carter was a wagon maker by trade, though while he lived in Canada he traveled for a time with a sleight-of-hand performer, and in later years organized a show at St. Louis, with which he toured the principal states of the union between the years 1840 and 1850. The first jail that he ever saw was at Mt. Sterling, where he worked for a time. He was also employed in St. Louis and Cairo, working at his trade, earning at hand work from $7 to $10 a day for work for which he would probably get not more than $1.50 now owing to the introduction of machinery into the trade.

After several years of wandering, Mr. Carter established himself in a wagon shop in Exeter, and prospered as the city prospered for many years, accumulating considerable property. In 1856 he went back to Canada, where he was married at Compton to Julia Ann Otis, who has trodden life's pathway with him until the present time. During their residence in Exeter they have lived in but two different houses, and have never paid rent.

Carter's wagon shop was for thirty years known all over this immediate section. He employed at one time fifteen men and built many of the wagons which were used in the rush of the forty-niners to the west. Just previous to this time he walked to this city and purchased of H. E. Wadsworth material for the iron work of the wagons, getting the whole of the order on credit, although Mr. Wadsworth had never seen him before, and walked back in the fall with the money. He has held seven United States patents on wagon devices during the time that he has worked at the trade. Having accumulated a competence, he left his shop about twenty-five years ago and has since lived a retired life on one of his farms.

Additional pleasure was added to the occasion by the presence of J. W. Smith, who had been acquainted with Mr. Carter in the palmy days of Exeter, but who had not seen him since 1857. The tales of these two pioneers were heard with interest by the younger members of the company.

Mr. Carter asserts that he has never in his life suffered a pain or an ailment of any kind. A number of years ago he lost his right eye by accidentally punching it out with a firebrand from a pile of burning brush, and has recently been afflicted to a certain extent. For a man who has in early days endured great hardships, however, he is remarkably well preserved and retains an active remembrance of the early events of his life.

The guests upon the pleasant occasion which was so appropriately celebrated presented the venerable relative and friend with a handsome rocking chair as a remembrance of the day.

AN HUNDRED YEARS

Is the Span of Life, According LondonScientist—Englishman Opposes Osler Theory.

London, Aug. 12.—Sir James C. Browne, the author of various works on mental and nervous diseases, in an address to the Public Health congress declared it was a good working hypothesis to regard the natural life of man as one hundred years. He did not agree with Professor Osler and others that the world's effective, vitalizing work was done between the ages of 25 and 40. Much of the world's best work, he said, had been done by men over 40. If the world were deprived of their work it would go back to the twilight of ages ago.

He quoted numerous instances to prove his contention. He urged that it was a duty to lengthen as well as strengthen life. He added that every man was entitled to a century and every woman to a little more. Every child should be brought up impressed with the obligation to avoid irregularities of living which tend to prevent the attainment of this ambition. While it is certain that a century of health and vigor could not be attained it could be reached by a faithful obedience to the laws of health and simplicity and tranquility in living.

RACE NEARLY EXTINCT.

When Columbus first sailed his quaint caravels across the blue Carribean sea and gazed with wonder on the verdure-clad mountains of the Antilles, he found the beautiful islands inhabited by a strange cannibal race, which he called Caribs. Spanish, French and English, in their turn, found this warlike people a menace to their settlements and progress and fought them doggedly but more or less ineffectually, for three centuries. Merciless, warlike and brave, these Caribs not only waged relentless war upon the whites, but in their swift dugout war canoes made frequent sorties from one island to another to prey upon their neighbors of their own race.

On these excursions they killed the men and carried the women back as slaves and wives and celebrated their victories by cannibal orgies, and it was doubtless upon the island of Tobago on such an occasion that Robinson Crusoe saved the life of his man Friday.

At last, however, the superior arms over the savage foe and the natives were gradually forced back from the coasts and exterminated, until today the sole survivors of this once dreaded people numbered scarcely 100 souls, living peacefully upon a government reservation on the island of Dominica.

Previous to the eruption of Mount Pelee and the Souffriere of St. Vincent, there was another small band of Caribs in the latter island; all of these, however, were destroyed by the eruptions. Of the Dominion Caribs only about one-half are of pure blood, or as nearly pure that no trace of negro blood is discernible. The others are greatly mixed, and it is difficult to determine where negro leaves off and Carib begins.

In appearence the Caribs are rather short and thick set, with yellowish or coppery-olive skin, stiff straight, blue-black hair and oval faces with distinctly Mongolian features. They are quiet almost to taciturnity, industrious and peaceable, but like "Poor Low," everywhere have an inveterate fondness for strong drink, and also possess another unfortunate Indian failing, being incorrigible thelves.

EDISON'S NEW BATTERY

CAN PROPEL A TWO TON TRUCK.

Single Charge Will Drive an Ordinary Automobile a Hundred Miles. Recharging Problem For Touring Vessels Not Yet Solved—Big Factory to Be Built.

Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, announced recently at his home, in Orange, N. J., that after two years of experimenting he is finally satisfied with the merits of his new storage battery and that he will at once begin the erection of a factory to manufacture the cells on a large scale for the trade, says the New York World.

This is the latest, and, while not the greatest of the wizard's many inventions, it is an accomplishment for which many electricians have been striving many years.

The cell as now perfected will drive a two ton truck at a rate of thirty-three miles an hour, with half the weight of the old method.

A small dealer can operate a delivery wagon with its power at 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse. An ordinary automobile will run 100 miles under ordinary conditions without recharging. Under the most favorable conditions 150 miles can be covered at a speed of tweney miles an hour.

More than these facts have been claimed for the cell by others, but it was not until the other day that Mr. Edison himself would even speculate as to the possibilities of his new invention. The wizard has experimented with 14,000 cells to perfect one.

The storage cell is small and incased in iron. Instead of containing the old lead plates of the original battery, it contains alternate plates of iron and nickel in a potash lye solution.

"The troubles in the battery I have been trying for two years to remedy have been purely mechanical," said Mr. Edison. "They have been greatly due to the swelling of the nickel element. I have succeeded in reducing the weight of the battery from forty to forty-five pounds per horse power. It has taken time to find out what was needed for this battery, because we cannot look ahead and see just what such a thing is going to do after we have it sketched on paper. In the two years I have been experimenting we have turned out some 14,000 cells of the battery and have operated 100 auto vehicles.

"I do not pretend to have solved the problem for touring vehicles. That can only be possible when more charging stations are spread about the country. Young Cooper Hewitt of New York has helped solve that problem with his mercury rectifier, which takes the place of the old transformer and makes it possible to convert the alternating currents used in small towns so as to make them available for charging the batteries.

"With proper motor and wagon equipment we can take our cells and operate an ordinary delivery wagon for 58 per cent of the cost of maintaining a horse."

Mr. Edison appeared to be in better physical condition than he has been for a long time. His face is full and he has a better color. He said that the trouble with his stomach, from which he has been suffering for several years, is greatly improved. Mr. Edison attributes the improvement to constant riding in his big steam automobile. The wizard likes outdoor life, and after giving out his statement he said:

"What I want now is a chance to get out in the woods and see the birds and flowers. I like to study them and the rocks and ferns and other things of the woods. It rests me after a long campaign like this."

Murder Bureau For Chicago.

John M. Collins, chief of police at Chicago, has announced that in a few days he will establish a murder bureau under the direction of Assistant Chief Schuettler. The assistant chief will have on his staff eight of the best detectives in the city and will work in harmony with the state attorney's office, says a Chicago dispatch. The object of the innovation is the gathering of evidence. As soon as a murder or any other big crime is committed the "runners" from Schuettler's office will go to the scene with a photographer and an artist or a draftsman. Every bit of tangible evidence will be picked up, tabled and used by the detectives in working up the case.

What They Took.

It is reported that on a recent occasion when Arthur Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Charles Beresford and the Japanese minister were dining out together Mr. Balfour, who was standing treat, asked Mr. Chamberlain what he would have, says Harper's Weekly.

"Thanks, I'll take Scotch, Arthur," was the response.

"And what will you take, Lord Charles?"

"I'll take Irish, Arthur."

"And what will you take?" addressing the Japanese minister.

"I'll take port, Arthur, thanks," was the answer.

Wickedness Becoming "Bad Form."

We are getting better every day, says Harper's Weekly. Each fresh exposure of an iniquity helps. We can even now detect symptoms of the happy day when it will be bad form to be wicked.

HYPNOTIC REFORMING.

Denver Judge to Try Novel Method on Young Offenders.

Hypnotism as a means of reforming boys and girls is to be tested in the juvenile court by Judge Benjamin B. Lindsey of Denver, one of the pioneers in juvenile court work. Judge Lindsey is taking lessons of a professional hypnotist and for years has been a theoretical student of hypnotism, says a Denver dispatch.

The first actual test will be made at the September term of court. A boy addicted to smoking cigarettes will probably be the first subject, as Judge Lindsey wishes to accomplish something which will demonstrate his ability to assuage physical cravings as well as bring about a mere mental reformation. Judge Lindsey recently returned from the convention of charities and corrections, where he met many phrenologists, most of whom advised him to attempt hypnotic experiments in the juvenile court.

"My intention is," said Judge Lindsey, "to practice so that I may become proficient. I have long believed in the influence of mind over matter, not that I am inclined to Christian Science beliefs, but merely that study has convinced me that mind is greater than matter and has a correspondingly greater influence. A weakminded person is led—does not lead others himself—and, though he may have no bad tendencies, will become bad just because somebody who is evil minded wills that this shall be.

"My dealings with children have shown me how true this is. For instance, there are some boys to whom cigarette smoke is decidedly offensive. But the other boys who smoke tell these they will never be manly unless they learn to smoke. In this manner boys are led into the most injurious practice known to modern science not through inclination, merely through influence.

"Now, if this is true, as it undoubtedly is, why should it not be possible for some one to use this influence in precisely the opposite direction? This was the question which set me to thinking, and the more I thought of it the more convinced I was that hypnotism if rightly used might be made a power for good. Experts say the drink habit, cigarette habit and gambling habit are all amenable to hypnotic suggestion. Why should not the 'bad' habit prove equally amenable?"

The child will be placed in a high backed chair opposite Judge Lindsey, with each of his hands in one of the hypnotist's hands and their knees and feet in contact. The subject will then be stared into a state of sleep, which will last from ten to fifteen minutes. During this time the operator will try to impress his thoughts on the mind of the child. The thoughts will be: "It is injurious for you to do thus and so, and therefore you must not do it. You do not care to do it, anyway."

LOVE NOTES IN BALLOONS.

Pie Baker's Aerial Plan to Find a Girl to Marry Him.

J. Schroerer, a pie baker in Kansas City, Mo., has for five years been seeking a wife. Each year on the anniversary of his birth he has sent up a paper balloon in which he previously placed a letter stating his age and that he had a good trade and wanted a wife, says the Kansas City Star. He sent up his last balloon a few days ago. It fell into the hands of a young woman, who sent it to the Star office with the following letter:

While sitting in my front yard tonight enjoying the cool evening I happened to look over in northwest direction and noticed a big balloon come over our way. It hadn't gone very far before it began to burn, and finally it fell in my back yard. On examination I found the inclosed letter. There isn't any one in this neighborhood that wants to be married that I know of and so will turn it over to you. Maybe you can give the gentleman some assistance. W. F. W.,
3268 Holmes street.

The letter taken from the balloon was written on the business envelope of a pie company and was addressed "To the First Maiden Who Finds or Reaches This Balloon." It read as follows:

Kansas City, Mo., July 22.

To some maiden whose good fortune fate sends this balloon. I am a young man, thirty-two years old, fairly good looking and have a good trade (baker). Am looking for a wife; would be pleased to correspond with the finder if a young lady who wishes to marry. If not, possibly she could recommend some one who is willing. I am sending out a balloon on each birthday since of age.

J. SCHROERER,
216 Goodrich place.

"Yes, I want a wife," said Schroerer the other afternoon. "There is no humbug about it. I have sent out a letter every years now for four or five years. I have never had any response that looked good, but I am not at all discouraged. I propose sending up one every year until I get a wife. I don't know just how to get one any other way."

RHEUMATISM
COMMON IN SUMMER

The time to get rid of Rheumatism is in Summer while the blood is endeavoring to purge itself of all poisons and impurities, and the skin is active, with all the pores and glands open and able, in this way, to assist in the elimination.

Columbus, O., 1355 Mt. Vernon, Ave.
Six years ago I had a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism, and the doctors I had did me no good. They changed medicine every week and nothing they prescribed seemed to help me. Finally I left off their medicine and began the use of S. S. S. My knee and elbow joints were swollen terribly, and at one time my hands were so swollen and painful that I could not close them when opened. I was getting discouraged, you may be sure, when I began S. S. S., but as I saw it was helping me I continued it, and today I am a sound, well man and have never had a return of the disease.
R. H. CHAPMAN.

The inactivity of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels causes the refuse matter to remain in the system, which, coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid to be absorbed by the blood and distributed to the different joints and muscles, producing the pains, inflammation and other distressing symptoms of Rheumatism. The wandering pains of the disease remind the sufferer that the poison is still in the blood and he should lose no time in getting it out. S. S. S. neutralizes the acid and makes the blood rich and pure. It tones up every organ and cures the disease permanently. S. S. S. contains no harmful minerals to disagreeably affect the system, but while curing the disease builds up every part of the body by its fine tonic effect. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired without charge.

CONDENSED STORIES.

An Occasion When the Bright Hotel Clerk Blundered.

George C. Boldt, the noted hotel man, said in an address to an audience of hotel clerks, says the New York Tribune: "There are no perfect hotel clerks. We can only try, in our imperfect human way, to read our guests, and sometimes, naturally, we make mistakes, like Mr. Blank.

"Blank was the excellent clerk of an excellent hotel. There entered one day an elderly farmer. The man wore expensive clothes, but Blank knew him for a farmer at a glance. 'What are a farmer's tastes? What appeals most to a farmer?' he asked himself hurriedly, and then he said: "'We can give you all the home comforts here, sir.'

"The farmer laid down the pen with which he had been entering his name and said in a disappointed voice:

"'I want more'n that when I come to a York hotel, young man. I kin git the home comforts at home.'"

Gilmore Was Misunderstood.

A short time before the civil war, when the late P. S. Gilmore was coming rapidly to the front as a bandmaster, his band was engaged to play at Music hall, Boston, the Fourth of July. At the intermission Mr. Gilmore stepped to the front of the stage and, with a motion of his hand, enjoined silence. He then made a short speech.

His voice did not evidently reach all the audience. At the front of the hall they preserved the most profound silence, having heard what he said. At the rear of the hall, not having heard what he said and only knowing that he was very popular, the people gave him a hearty round of applause.

The next day's issue of a morning paper contained the following, or words to the same effect, "When Mr. Gilmore announced the death of Ned Kendall, the famous bugler, at Music hall yesterday it was received with tremendous applause."—Boston Herald.

An Engagement Kiss

[Original.]

I was in a frame of mind to get all the fun that could be possibly extracted from two weeks' vacation. I extracted so much in the first twenty-four hours that—but I anticipate.

I alighted at the hotel, gave my hand baggage to a porter and was climbing the piazza steps when I saw a girl whom I was sure I had never met before coming to meet me with a radiant smile.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "I thought you were not coming till tomorrow."

"But you see I have come today," I replied, humoring her mistake, for I knew she was in error as to my identity.

"Well, I declare! You quite take my breath away," she went on, looking at me admiringly from tip to toe. "How you have improved! I'd scarcely have recognized you."

"You are the same lovely girl; you couldn't improve."

I was treading on dangerous ground, but relied as soon as the error was discovered on my ingenuity in making up a plausible story to let me out.

"Well," I said looking at her wistfully, "are you of the same mind?"

"Those people over there are looking at us. Leave me till after supper; then we'll walk on the beach."

I was glad to comply, determining that as soon as I rejoined her I would let the fact come out that I was not the lover she expected. When we met again my resolution weakened. I could not resist the temptation to enjoy a brief period with so charming a girl. We went down on to the beach in the gloaming and strolled on the line of foam. The moon rising out of the ocean glinted the crests of intervening waves. The stars were coming out. There was no sound but the plash of waves. I knew that if I talked of anything except love I would expose my hand, and it seemed as natural for me to talk love to her as if we had long been lovers. I told her how during the four years of absence my heart had yearned for her and begged her to tell me if I was to be made happy. Sailing on the broad sea of love I struck never a rock, and when it was time for us to go in she had no suspicion that she had made an exchange of lovers.

"And now," I said before parting, "give your reply in a kiss."

She kissed me, and that kiss was the loveliest, longest, most rapturous I ever took from woman's lips.

The next morning I rose late and was the only person in the breakfast room. Sitting by a window, I heard voices on the piazza.

"Who was the fellow," asked a man's voice, "and what did he look like?"

"Like you, very much improved from what you were when I saw you last."

"H'm! You don't seem to consider me improved."

"Not in disposition. You blame me for a very natural mistake."

"A very unnatural mistake. If you make such mistakes after we are married, there'll be the deuce to pay."

"We're not married yet."

I peeped through a slat in the blind and saw a man sitting with the girl I had made love to the night before. He looked very like me, though I did not feel flattered by the likeness. What should I do—slink out unobserved and take the first train or brazen it out? I marched boldly out and joined them.

I certainly expected both to receive me scornfully. Without waiting for either to speak I begged a thousand pardons of the girl for not rectifying her mistake at once, giving as my only reason that she was so charming I could not bring myself to do so. While I was speaking, which I did humbly, the face of the girl slowly broadened into a smile; that of the man grew momentarily surlier. Having done all I could to atone for my sin, I turned and left them.

I resolved to leave the place that afternoon, but, meeting the girl without her lover, she extended her hand to me and asked me to take a seat beside her. I did so and told her of my intention to depart, which had been formed on the ground that my presence there would not be agreeable to her and her lover. She declared that she would not be the cause of my departure and begged me to stay. I determined to remain for awhile, but if my presence proved objectionable I would go at once.

That evening, observing the young lady sitting alone on the piazza, I joined her. To my surprise, at my mention of her lover she said that he had gone.

Then she gave me her confidence in a matter of which I already knew the principal part. At eighteen she had admired a man whom she had known but a short time when he removed to another place. They had corresponded, and after four years' absence he had returned, hoping to get a favorable answer to his suit. She had been disappointed in him and had rejected him.

I chatted with her till the moon rose, then boldly asked her if she would walk on the beach. She accepted the invitation, and, walking over the same sands as the night before, I made the same love. She proposed that I should go away and return for an answer in four years, but I told her I had been in suspense for twenty-four hours and that was long enough. She considered that ridiculously short, but yielded. When later I rallied my wife on accepting me on such short acquaintance she said:

"H'm! Do you suppose I was going to let you go after that engagement kiss?" MARK ANDERSON.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Wheat—The market was weak from start to finish. Commission houses and pit traders were free sellers throughout the entire day. The market opened weak under the influence of semi-official denial of damage to the crop. However, weakness developed on numerous reports from the northwest claiming spring wheat in excellent condition. The market closed weak, near the lowest point of the day, September being off 1⅛@1¼c.

Corn—Official forecast of showers throughout the middle west caused weakness. Cash houses were free sellers and there was also profit-taking by many of yesterday's buyers. The decline in wheat was an additional bearish influence. The market closed at practically the lowest point of the day, September off ¼c.

Oats—Liberal receipts created weak undertone. The market was also influenced by weakness of other grains. Cash houses were principal sellers. The close was weak, September off ¼c.

Flour—Market steady. Winter patents, $4.20@4.30; straights, $4.00@4.10; spring patents, $4.85@5.40; straights, $3.50@4.85; bakers, $2.40@3.40.

NOTICABLE IMPROVEMENT.

One of the most noticeable improvements of the south end of the town in recent years is that being made along West Morton avenue and South Diamond street, along the grounds of Central hospital. Along Morton avenue the old hedge is being torn out and inside the grounds, about twelve feet back from the present line of the grounds, a concrete walk will be laid for the entire length of the grounds. Inside the walk an iron fence will be built as far as Church street, similar to the one along South Main street. The change will increase the width of Morton avenue about fourteen feet.

A concrete walk will also be laid along the full length of the grounds on Diamond street. O. Hoffman has the contract for the walk on Morton avenue, and the one on Diamond street will be built by Smith & Fernandes.

INDIAN HISTORY

Responsible for Naming of Many Illinois Counties—Bits of Interesting History Recalled.

Indian history, and white heroes of the early Illinois days, are largely responsible for the naming of Illinois counties, according to a Sycamore exchange.

Jo Daviess county is named in honor of Col. Joseph Hamilton Daviess of Kentucky, an officer killed in the battle of Tippecanoe; Stephenson, for Col. Benjamin Stephenson, who served in the war of 1812 and the Black Hawk war; Winnebago, for a tribe of Indians, the name meaning "people of the stinking waters"; Boone, for the great hunter and pioneer Indian fighter; McHenry, for Gen. William McHenry, an officer of the Black Hawk war; Lake, from its proximity to Lake Michigan; Cook, from Daniel P. Cook, member of congress; DuPage or DePage, from DuPage river, which was named for a French Indian DuPage or DePage, who had his headquarters on the river before 1800; Kane, from Elisha Kent Kane, United States senator from Illinois, 1824-1835; DeKalb, from Baron DeKalb, who fell while leading the continental troops at Camden, 1780; Ogle, from Capt. Joseph Ogle, an Indian fighter in the Ohio valley; Carroll, for Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence; Whiteside, for Gen. Samuel Whiteside of the war of 1812, and the Black Hawk war; Lee, for Gen. Richard Henry Lee of the revolution; Rock Island, named from an island in the Mississippi river, which is formed of limestone; Mercer, for Gen. Hugh Mercer, the brave and dashing officer killed at Princeton in January, 1777; Henry, for Patrick Henry; Bureau, for a French trader, Pierredo Beuro; LaSalle, for the noted French explorer; Kendall, for a postmaster general of the United States, 1835-1840; Grundy, for Felix Grundy, United States senator from Tennessee; Kankakee, from the Indian name of a vegetable grown on the banks of the Kankakee river, and Will, for Dr. Conrad Will, member of the Illinois legislature, 1818-1834.
